R.A.L. WALKER

Any dedication that we might make could never match your own. You have devoted four years to an office that was not here before you came. You have given your very self to that job; and for that reason, it is an extension of you.

You have been genuinely interested in each of us; and from you we have learned to accept ourselves and each other.

Where we have been apathetic, you have—with determination, yet not without a gentle concern—sought to make us care.

From you we learned that no human belief is too sacred to question, but more importantly, that no person, regardless of belief, should be ignored or despised.

You have led us into new and meaningful worship experiences. Indeed, the totality of your religion has said to us, "all life is God's good gift. Let us affirm its joys, its pains, its routing, its ecstasy."

You have said to us that if our school, a small Christian college, is to have meaning, it can be only in our personal, dynamic exchange between faculty and students in the true learning experience. You have taken the vital initiative in creating learning experiences in which there was such an exchange.

The title "director of religious activities" carries little meaning in itself. You, "Bud," have given it the significance it now holds for us; Meredith will not soon forget that you were here. And all who know you will understand why we dedicate the 1967 Oak Leaves to you, Mr. R.A.L. Walker.

"Being the only coed here is an awesome thing."

"Everybody knows I'm sort of an earthy person."

Speaking the truth in love

"You are struggling with a real question."

"Hey, maybe this year we can simply dare to fail."

"This is my senior year, too, don't forget."

LIBRARY STAFF

As a separate, but not separated, community in the city of Raleigh, we at Meredith seek to question, to know, to lead, and to serve. Because we are a part of the whole, we take from and give to the community. And from the sharing we grow with the community, hopefully towards a betterment for all.

LAW AND JUSTICE

Student Government Association

Our attempt toward democratic self government . . . required duties are performed but creativity is expected . . . we debate the issues . . . we attend committee meetings . . . we give form to the student voice which demands more than is possible . . . such demands keep us thinking . . . and acting . . . freedom with responsibility the underlying goal.

Ellen Kirby, President

Legislative Board

The Legislative Board holds regular weekly meetings to consider changes that will clarify, simplify, or improve existing regulations, policies, and the Student Government Constitution. Sub-committees are formed to draw up recommendations that come back to the Board for discussion, possible revision, and final approval. Recommendations are often devised as a result of ideas and suggestions that come from hall buzz sessions or "open" Board meetings. Representing every hall on campus, the Legislatve Board becomes aware of student body concerns and works through committees to make constructive improvements.

CANDACE CRUMLY, Chairman

Spring brings campus elections . . . and long meetings for the Nominating Committee. Subcommittees meet . . . and meet . . . and meet to draw up proposals for the improvement of our system of elections. Conscientious workers, deliberate decisions, dorm discussions, addresses to the student body, and high voter participation result in the selection of qualified leaders for next year. Evaluation leads to a betterment of the system.

Judicial Board

"Judy Board" . . . Monday night meetings in first Vann . . . sixteen members representing all four classes . . . understanding faculty advisors . . . those late, late hours . . . administrators of justice . . . appreciation of straight-forwardness and truthful testimony . . . careful consideration of each case . . . democratic procedures . . . constant striving to uphold the Honor Code.

Kay Cockerham, Chairman

Student Activities Board

The Student Activities Board is a flexible, growing body undertaking a variety of projects. Composed of club presidents and officers from each class, society, and dormitory, the board represents every phase of student life. Its primary purpose is to integrate campus activities and fulfill the cultural and social needs of students and faculty members. Through the voices of dorm representatives, students can channel their suggestions and grievances in all matters of campus life, outside of the legislative realm, to the proper source for action. Thorough studies this year led to improvements in the decor and atmosphere of the campus. Among the projects inaugurated by the Board this year are Parent's Day, a student committee on concerts and lectures to provide more cultural and intellectual stimulation outside of the classrooms, social activities jointly sponsored by North Carolina State University and Meredith students, and a carnival to raise money for the Library Fund. The Board is progressive and is finding many new outlets for its services.

. . . because there are blind children wanting to "see"

. . . because there are mental patients who want a touch with the outside

. . . because there are youth who need the guidance of one who knows and the love of one who is concerned

. . . because there are questions to be answered, doubts to be dealt with, shackles to be unloosed

. . . because college is a place to grow in personal, spiritual and world awareness

The MCA provides both the means of understanding the truths of God in Christ and the opportunities for expressing them by creative service projects at the State School for the Blind, Dorothea Dix Hospital, a tutorial project and social action programs. The organization strives to strengthen, correlate, and unify all the separate religious denominations into one campus fellowship with an all-inclusive program of religious activities.

Student Government Counselors

The counselors are a group of Sophomore and Junior girls who serve under the guidance of Lucile Peak as student advisors for Freshmen and transfer students. Once a month, these girls meet either in small individual groups or in an assembly of all groups for programs and discussions of interest. Each group has a faculty advisor who advises each girl until the time her major is declared.

Baptist Student Union

A community within our Meredith community serving Baptist students who seek a closer bond of fellowship within their own denomination—The Meredith College Baptist Student Union strives to preserve ties established in the home church and reinterpret them toward the college community and local church, bringing about a fulfillment through dialogue, service, and worship. B.S.U., the largest denominational organization on campus draws its leadership from an executive council, directors, and pastor and faculty advisors. Membership is open to the entire student body with an endeavor through the forums and activities of the organization to increase the students' awareness of the vital conflicts and concerns in confronting modern life.

JUDY WACASTER, President

Kneeling: Graham, Comas, Neel, Bailey, Graybeal, Sparks. Standing: Miller, Pearce, James, Lentz, Strickland, Price, Wilson, George, Wacaster.

Meredith Recreation Association

The purpose of the Recreation Association is to develop a sound body, along with a sound mind, and to promote health, happiness, and a spirit of fair play. The M. R. A. provides activities through a variety of phases: fellowship at the Orientation picnic, apple bobbing at Corn Huskin', painting scenery for Stunt, singing for the faculty at Christmas, practicing foul shots for basketball, and challenging a faculty member to a game of bridge at Play Day. Through individual activities, team sports, and class participation, the Meredith Recreation Association offers opportunities for everyone.

phi

A Wonderful year for the Phis!
One man's family at the fall freshman meeting,
Our hearts won over by the cerebral palsy children
at Christmas time;
A Honda ride at the Supper Club,
And a luau in the snow.
A rush made gratifying by a wonderful freshman class!

A successful year
Because of hard work,
Conscientious leadership,
Desire to contribute to campus affairs,
Better intra-society relations,
And renewed interest by members.

A year of resolution:
To lead as we have been led,
To serve as best we can,
To co-operate as we are needed,
To draw closer in fellowship,
And with "plain living and high thinking,"
To express to our community
The genuine Philaretian image
That we chose to follow.

Introducing Me

"Curtain going up! And this, audience, is the Meredith freshman class."

As we walk across the imaginary stage, I see myself, a member of this somewhat bewildered group, as I begin this new phase of my life. The culmination of my past is the "me" I see now. I remember most vividly my first days in kindergarten, my first report card, my freshman year in high school, my first date, the Senior Prom, and, finally, my high school commencement. All of these are milestones in my life. I also see the people who have patiently and lovingly guided me—my family, my friends, my teachers. I think about my "favorite things"—beach trips, pajama parties, dances, stereo records, chocolate milkshakes, good report cards, and flowers from a special friend. At times, life is wonderful and exciting for me. Every day promises new and different experiences, and living is a joy. But, at other times, the insecurity and uncertainty of youth is so overwhelming that I begin to doubt my abilities and my worth. I sometimes want to be treated as an adult, even though I must admit that I often act more like a child. At other times the adult world seems strange and formidable, and my childhood becomes a symbol of a security that is lost. I know that I'm scatterbrained, impractical, and self-centered. But I rationalize my faults and promise myself that I'll try to focus my thoughts on others.

I consider my life representative of that of the typical college freshman. We have had similar experiences and felt similar emotions. We are a part of a society which is rather uniform in its ideas and ideals. We have read the same books, seen the same movies, thought the same thoughts, and weathered the painful period of adolescence.

I believe that the greatest significance of my past is the realization that it has made me the individual I am. I remember my first beach vacation and the Senior Prom with happy, nostalgic feelings. But I look to the future with anticipation.

College is a transition between childhood and adulthood. It is a time for youth to live a somewhat idealistic existence in preparation for the outside world, a world of reality. As a college student, I hope to benefit from this community academically, socially, and spiritually. At college, the individual finds his special talents and abilities, meets new and different people, and grows in his understanding of his basic religious beliefs. The Baptist chaplain at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill says that the student makes the three most important decisions of his life while at college. He chooses a profession, a partner, and a philosophy. I hope that college will help me to decide the contributions that I will be best capable of making to society. And, as most other college girls, I naturally hope to find my "prince Charming." But most important of all, I hope to find a philosophy for my life—to know exactly who I am.

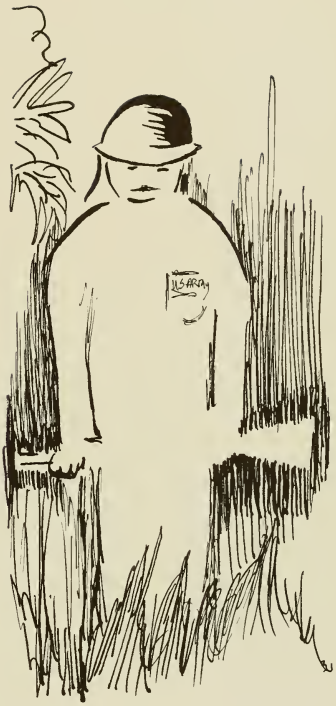
I don't believe, however, that I will find the answers to all my questions and the realization of all my dreams at college. But I do hope that, because of my college experience, my life will develop a deeper meaning and purpose. In the words of Louisa May Alcott, "Life is my college. May I graduate well and earn some honors."

JEANIE LACKEY



MEDITATIONS ON THE PRESENT STATE OF AFFAIRS

Yesterday
As I sat
comfortably
In front of The Box
The man said
cheerfully
That 2,000 commies had been killed
in eight days
In the current anti-war war in Vietnam.
And I thought
This is ridiculous.
It is past the point of sadness or tragedy.
It is ridiculous.
For you may
Blow, whistle, and shout,
Weep, stamp, stare at the wall,
The sky,
Or burn yourself
to protest
What you cannot understand,
accept,
or change.

Meanwhile,
there is
silence,
sirens in the night,
shots, searchlights,
barbed wire,
guns, guns, guns
Missiles and men,
And all staring at the wall—
Iron or stone or bamboo,
Or red, white, and blue—
With one finger on the trigger
And one on the button
And a child playing with a toy soldier
While a boy soldier
Lies dying
In a sweaty jungle.
And it is ridiculous.

SYLVIA STOUDEMIRE

TO A LOST LOVE

Your words had no meaning that day—
semantics pushed aside
you talked of love, and life and laughter, little things you liked—or said you loved

Life to you was some delightful, some exciteful isle where silence stilled the air
where one's only care was making sure that one's own tour
wouldn't settle there!

Me? I want faces, push and pull of crowds down mainstreet
a small backyard with a fence
(and that with a hole to let the world in)
And I want teas where ladies come to chat
Of this and that,
To unfold wallet pictures of their kin
And talk of little troubles Johnny's in.
And I can only laugh and long
For my own creation, procreation and shaping of humankind.

The world's not large enough for them and me, you say.
Your world's too small for me
Without its shrilling streets, boarded buses,
Babies' bleats and mothers' hushes,
Backyards strewn with strings 'n things
That make for big-eyed boys' joys,
Little girls with frills and curls
And old men that for years have been Molded to park benches.

I want to see and be with all of these
And you—
Why, you're there; I'm here
And there's no path between us . . .
Except by the high road of humanity
Or the low road of void.

NANCY BOYD

Be It Ever So Humble

Never call home when you are homesick! I did and I cried my eyes out for two hours. Daddy, who to me always has been very stern and almost cold-hearted, seemed to have a distinct warmth in his voice, a warmth I had never noticed before. Mother sounded so sweet I could hardly believe it was she. We never seemed to do anything but argue before, but now as I sit here trying to recapture the sound of her voice, I cannot imagine why I ever found reason for quarreling. My little sister had an angelic sound in her voice as she said, "Sissy, I miss you." The lump in my throat would not go away. I thought of all the times I had scolded her for picking up the telephone extension when I was talking to a friend. Speaking for myself, as well as many others, I am sure that if we get nothing else out of our stay at college, we will leave with a much deeper sense of appreciation for the truly important things in life, our homes and our families. There is no place like home.

VICKY DAVIS

LOOKING BACK

I came to you a dreamer
Full of thoughts
Strong with the strength of youth.
Never defeated, yet never really tried.
You waged war immediately,
As though your very existence relied Upon my destruction.
You took my dreams, my hopes, my plans, my ideals,
my songs, my leisure time;
And gave me instead frustration, angry tears, hopelessness at your unjust ways, nights of worry, and idols with clay feet.
You took my security and broke it into shattered pieces,
Asking that I give you also the best of my abilities.
And then you sent me out from you,
Unsure and afraid to face life.
And I found trials,
And found myself in difficult situations,
But I discovered
You had taken my youthful strength and torn it down,
To replace it with a shaft of steel inside me
Which could not be shaken.
You had laughed at my pseudo self-confidence
That would have been destroyed with the first defeat,
And instilled in me instead a perception of my own strengths and weaknesses on which I found firm footing.
The shattered dreams, forgotten hopes and schemes,
You had replaced with clearly-defined goals and assurance that I could reach them.
You made me a better person,
Yet I shudder remembering those
Who were defeated by you,
Meredith College.

Gold Medallion

TOTAL ELECTRIC GOLD MEDALLION HOME ® LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY AWARD
CERTIFICATION MARK—N.E.M.A.

When you buy or build specify a Gold Medallion Home, and step up to the joy of All-Electric living. The whole family will love it.

In a Gold Medallion Home clean, flameless electricity keeps you warm and cooks your meals, heats the water and gives you light for living. And it works in so many other ways to make housekeeping chores easier and living better.

P.S. CP&L's rate for all-electric homes has been reduced four times in the last six years. Electric living is cheaper than ever.
